In light of recent events, I'm prefacing this document with an apology to the victims (all of which have been censored by color in images to preserve their identities; the names in this document will be replaced by the color they were censored by), my friends, and anyone and everyone else that I've hurt for my support. And I would also like to extend my thanks to everyone who checked in on me, expressed concern, gave their earnest advice on how to handle the situation and helped me realize that my intentions may have been misguided. I would also like to thank my anonymous aid, because I don't think I would've been able to compile this and come to terms without them.

PLEASE NOTE that at this point and time that anything I say in this document aren't hard accusations against the mentioned parties: these are things I was told which made me stick by Hex's side throughout all of this.

I'm going to be stepping down as Hex's mod for its servers, effective immediately, and will be disassociating myself from it and the current situation. After reviewing the document, I cannot in good faith continue to support him, especially when I've been consistently asked to maintain its servers and inadvertently act as its mouthpiece. I still feel a lot of guilt and confusion writing this because of the things I believed to be true by Hex, but with the reveal of the contents of the original callout doc, there's too much subject matter with proof to say everything's a lie or has been taken out of context.

I was accused by someone of having full knowledge and disclosure of what Hex had been doing prior to the callout, having been approached first by one of the victims (03/03). While I had been approached by the first victim ("Cyan"), I was approached by Hex within minutes of Cyan's message and was told to be wary of him because of how Cyan was trying to sneak around to isolate him. Prior to this, as early as last year, Hex had told me about things that both Cyan and another victim ("Orange"; as well as others) did to him, including but not limited to emotional and psychological abuse and how they would use him for their own gain. I was sympathetic to his story and distanced myself from both victims and was distrusting of them. After Cyan called Hex to confront him, he told me that Cyan was using the fact that Hex was 18 and his partner was 17 to overblow the situation, and how Orange initially lied about its age, also telling me that Cyan was only mad because of something Hex had said about him in the past after another private event between them that I won't disclose for the sake of privacy, giving me the impression that this was petty drama or a revenge piece because of an old grudge (03/05).

Cyan approached me again to encourage me to distance myself from Hex, provided context including a video clip of how Hex said that he didn't know Purple's age (03/10). Confused and shocked at the allegations, I approached Hex that same day and told him that I hope that he better himself in the future. Hex then told me how Cyan would use intimidation tactics to pressure confessions out of him, and how Purple themselves didn't consider Hex to have been grooming them. At this point, combined with what Hex told me had allegedly transpired when he lived with them, I wholly believed him and at his request would even cover for him in an effort to protect him, not questioning him further, encouraging him to defend himself (3/12). I wanted to help a friend that I thought was being mistreated by every party involved but now I see that I was making the situation worse and seeking myself deeper into a hole.

I've constantly tried to do right and help someone that I considered to be a friend with whatever he needed, from pruning members who weren't 21+ after the new rule was implemented in his server, to covering for Hex and making statements on his behalf and maintaining general upkeep for his servers, and ultimately posting his response for him when he should've been the one to do it himself. The original plan had always been to post the response alongside the callout post, because Hex had told me that Cyan told him not to attempt to defend himself; I had no idea about the true severity and gravity of the situation and how many victims were involved (when comparing the situation between himself and Toby, at some point Hex mentioned that a dick joke is one of the reasons that's getting him in trouble), and I apologize for having been so stubborn and letting my good faith get the better of me.

When Cyan came to me one final time to tell me to stop defending Hex (04/14; prior to the callout finally being posted), I thought it was an attempt to intimidate me and to isolate Hex when I thought he needed someone most. He even offered to show me evidence, but I refused to comment further because I thought, somehow, that it would be taken out of context because I thoroughly didn't trust a word Cyan was saying against my better judgment. At this point, I learned that my friends were being warned about Hex, and I thought it was another ploy to pull them out of Hex's friend circle with what I believed to be lies. I didn't know that one of said friends was a victim of Hex's as well and I'm extending my apology to them as well.

After reading the document for myself, a little after the initial blow up from it, I started to realize what I was standing by. I don't fault anyone who reacted the way they did to me when I posted the response for Hex; if I had taken the time to read the contents of the callout, I don't think I would've posted it at all. Even still, I felt like I was being asked to play catch up in Hex's stead and took the brunt of all of it with no support from the very person I was going to bat for. I implored Hex to take some kind of action or to say something instead of deleting tweets and drawing to avoid the problem, but he told me that he wasn't avoiding it, and that he just didn't have anything left to say. I let Hex know my true feelings of how I felt before stepping away. And truthfully speaking, I'm still unsure if I'm being overly sentimental in my parting statement either.

As of 4/16 and 4/17, I've personally apologized to Purple for my part in this, and Cyan and I spent a few hours clearing things up about things I was told (alongside proof). I once again can't apologize enough to anyone else I've hurt. I was stubborn and to see my once-thought good intentions blow up like this is devastating. I once again apologize to my friends that I've disappointed as well. I hope to reconnect with anyone that I've lost over this, should they decide to forgive me.

As my final statement, because I know it's been something I was accused of having been doing: I did not demod a moderator for posting the callout in Hex's old server. I had the owner role for a minute before it was taken from me. And as of typing this, the main channel for Hex's newer server, Bidiot Box, was suddenly deleted by Hex himself. I don't want my name on this, as it's clear that the situation is continuing to be made worse and worse without any actual statement or action.

Thank you.

[HEX] 03/05/2023 6:05 PM

he used my relationship with my abusive ex as an example of me being weird i wish i was joking and again [ORANGE] implied i was weird with him because HE lied about his age to me about him being 18 at the time when he wasnt.

he was TURNING 18 and admitted that to me who was 19 at the time and i said it was ok because he was turning 18
i ended up having to break it off with [PURPLE] because they were saying they didnt want me to "lose financial stability" if someone accused me of being weird with them :")

[HEX] 03/05/2023 6:08 PM

[QUIL]: im having a legitimate break down because i don't know who's telling the truth and what's real and what isn't you have to say something, you can't afford to draw and avoid the problem right now

[HEX] Today at 6:28 PM
I'm not avoiding the problem /gen I don't have anything to say im just

Hex replies to Quil's message with:

[HEX] Today at 6:29 PM
If you need a break please take one
I don't know what they're telling you because [CYAN] was berating me for talking about how he treated me

[HEX] Today at 6:33 PM
I already told you everything truthfully about what happened. And the doc is out so you know. I really didn't do anything I did for my own sexual gratification if that's what you're doubting me on
I hope you're ok quil please take a break
I'm sorry if I upset you

[QUIL] Today at 8:52 PM
i don't think you did it to be sexual, but genuinely speaking, a lot of it was selfish and hasty which is why i was getting on you about [random person unrelated] please listen to people when they're concerned for you.
i feel like i took a lot of the heat for you modding and even posting the response, and while i understand the circumstances i genuinely felt alone handling all of it by myself

i'm going to be stepping down from modding duty and backing away from the situation because a lot of this counts on you. i know confrontation and the entire situation itself is uncomfortable, but i can't be a spokesperson or a single mod in this situation. but i don't hate you, and you know where to find me. for a quick disclaimer, i don't want refunds or anything like that and you can get to all my art and stuff in time because i know you're still going through it. but currently that's my stance on everything

also, i still sympathize with your upbringing around fandom culture as well as your general life in general because i've had experience with that life as well. i understand that that had something to do with it, but this is just... so much, man

[HEX] Today at 9:08 PM

i understand quil. im sorry for,, being an ass about shit if it seemed like i was im sorry for wanting you to-- help me as well you dont have to talk for me at all or associate with me anymore if u dont want to i wouldnt wanna force you to

[QUIL] Today at 9:22 PM

helping wasn't the problem, but i felt like i was DOING more than just "helping" if that makes sense. /gen /nm it's just been a lot. i genuinely hope you find peace and healing and are able to move forward appropriately /gen

[HEX] Today at 9:22 PM

yeah.. im sorry again quil

4/17: MAJOR EDIT IN RELATION TO SPEAKING WITH CYAN

After speaking with Cyan and seeing every bit of proof that addressed and went against Hex's claims that he had told me to keep him at his side in the first place, I want nothing to do with Hex in any capacity.

I'm realizing a lot in hindsight and I'm thoroughly appalled by his behavior, his lies, and his manipulating my emotions to stand by him.

This is my final confrontation with Hex (w/o transcripts this time because I want this finished and to be done with it all; if they are still required, let me know, and I'll apply them /gen) with a TW for abuse mentioned by Toby. Even then, I'm probably being too forgiving. But where it stands, I have nothing more to say to or about him except for involved parties that may ask.

Thank you all for reading.
